We've also included the length of each book along with a brief summary to ensure you don't encounter any spoilers before the big listen. Tolkien Narrated by Rob Inglis; 55+ hours Why you should listen: Are you planning to travel across the country - maybe twice? And it is potentially the author's "most scarlet novel yet". "The Fellowship of the Ring" by J.R.R. Tolkien is a journey through history, starting in the Stone Age, discovering how six different drinks - from beer to coffee to cola - have defined the world. World Travel by Anthony Bourdain Narrated by Laurie Woolever, Shep Gordon, Christopher Bourdain, Jon Agg, Matt Walsh, Bill Buford, Claude Tayag, Nari Kye, Vidya Balachander and Steve Albini; 12 hours long Why you should listen: New York, Buenos Aires, Paris, Shanghai and World Travel takes you everywhere and serves as the perfect guide to learn more about each of these stunning places while enjoying your own adventure. Things I've Learned From Women Who've Dumped Me by Ben Karlin Narrated by: Stephen Colbert, Will Forte, Nick Hornby, Andy Richter, Dan Savage and Ben Karlin; 3.5 hours long Why you should listen: With hilarious narrators like these sharing stories about their most memorable breakups, you'll know you're in for a ride that will have you laughing out loud until you reach your destination. R. MORE FROM ASK.COM Photo Courtesy Arnold Media/Getty Images Whether you are planning the most epic cross-country summer road trip, or easing into the daily commute as the world reopens, you may be looking for something to help you break away from the monotony on the road as you head to your destination. That said, it is a Stephen King classic that does not receive as much attention as his other titles. The Secret History of the Mughal Queens by Jack Weatherford Narrated by Robertson Dean; 10 hours long Why you should listen: e e cA nahK sihgneG erbos ebas Acov euq Do you know much about your daughters? Better to keep the kids (and yourself!) safe Busy Bees - courtesy: Kinzie Riehm / Getty Images A wrinkle in time, by Madeleine L'Engle - Engle narrated by Hope Davis, Ava Duvernay, Madeleine L'Engle - and Charlotte Jones Voiklis; 6.5 hours why you should listen: This classic is perfect for older, science fiction-loving children who can't get enough of travel tales. Now, get ready to start building your digital library before you hit the road! Best for scratching the travel bug A Photo Source: Allyson Chen / Getty Images the Great Alone by Kristin Hannah narrated by Julia Whelan; 15 hours why you should listen: survival meets coming of age, meets family loss in this tale of a family that moves to a remote area of Alaska to live off the grid. Add a sinister love triangle and some betrayal, and you have the perfect recipe for road trip thrills. You 120 Caroline Kepnes narrated by Santino Fontana, over 11 hours why you should listen: Here's another popular Netflix series that was based on a book - and it's totally compelling. It will grab you, of course, but it will make you want to enjoy the book's journey as much as you are embarking on it. A Photo courtesy: [Westend61 / Getty Images] the best of me by David Sedaris narrated by David Sedaris; 13 hours why you should listen: When you want funny, you can't go wrong with an offer from the king of humor himself. Time to find out in a thriller that will keep you guessing. Telling the story of mysterious and life-changing events ranging from a bombing to an artwork to the main character's trial process will also help even the most monotonous passage at no time.
